

Finding out what people are already doing

Lots of people already help people with learning disabilities to plan for the end of life.

We want to hear about how people make these plans.

We will look at lots of reports on the internet about plans for the end of life.

We have made a survey to ask people who work with people with learning disabilities what they are doing.

There is more information about the survey here.